A Guide to EPEMC Trip Reports; past, present & future

Sf. R. Careaga, BSEE, MSTOM
December 2022

ABSTRACT

Extended Plasma-electromagnetic Cosmology^{1 2} has made rapid progress in the years since inception (2018). Evolutionarily, it has sprawled into many corners, and has gained many fans; as well as achieved unexpected status in Academia's social media ranking. The growth of podcast³ and shows⁴ with so many fans, is touching. But what is unsung, in importance, and key to the difference here and with almost all the altstream, saving perhaps the Zamora-Hancock-Schoch-Carlson cadre, is the performance of real site surveys using electromagnetometers, civil engineering equipment, drones, and other means of mapping; as well as demonstration of the issues. For example, videographic proof that Shiprock cannot possibly be 27 million years old, etc. In this paper we list these works, and put out a short road-map for the immediate future of the EPEMC™, and encourage others to do the same.

Keywords: geology - meteorology - petroglyphs - rock art - plasmaglyphs - Arthurology - Kentucky - Arizona

Present

The present work have been primarily transparent overlays and use of software, mapping, and weather technology (to look at Changes¹⁹ and electrogeometerology) to create MESSies²⁰. The result of this work has been more than satisfactory because it is macrolytic and conforms to a general mimsical-diagrammatica. However, in the world of EPEMC [graded] evidence, it is not enough. Therefore, some of the future work will push the inclusion of other site surveys. The author also has a pending Trip Report due about Three Rivers Petroglyphs and also about Graffiti Rock, KY. These need to be produced back to back for a MESSy to then be produced based upon these works.

Future

The most immediate future goal is another electromagnetic site survey for WinStar farms in the area of the Perattian Thunderbolt. Also, site surveys for Pebble Beach and Culvertown would be excellent. Here are other ideas for near term future site surveys and trip reports:

- ☐ WinStar Farms - single crater
- ☐ Lily Cornett Woods vs. Pine Mountain Flux electromagnetics
- ☐ Redbird Forest
- ☐ Crystal Onyx Cave
- ☐ Access to Ft. Knox for the Dome on base
- ☐ Fluoropsar District/mine
- ☐ Photographs of the stone mounds beneath Yatesville Lake
- ☐ Lawrence County "serpent mound"
